WHAT SARAH'S CLIENTS SAY

"Sarah gave me confidence in where I can get to in the future"

"Really wish we'd come to you sooner, but better late than never! Loved the fact you totally understood where we are at with our situation"

"I like the way she guides me to empower myself"

"You listened – I shared some very personal information and I felt supported"

Sarah believes her role as a financial coach is not just to provide quality advice – but to empower you to take the wheel and get in control of your financial future. She combines strong strategic and analytical skills from her background in banking, audit, and management roles, with her innate patience, empathy, and determination.

Sarah knows that working out what resonates with a client and understanding what makes them tick are both key steps that allow her to equip them with practical solutions, tailored to their needs.

Having operated three small businesses while raising three young children, Sarah understands the juggle, and that managing your finances well requires great systems to make the process effortless.

Sarah exercises her creative bent by cooking gourmet meals for friends, sewing and painting and loves to get into her garden. The Canterbury region has been home to her family for over 150 years.
